TRINITY CHURCH, Broadway and Wall St., New York City. Founded 1697. Present edifice erected 1846.

High Altar and Reredos. Dedicated on June 29, 1877, to the memory of William B. Astor by his sons John Jacob and William. The Altar itself is constructed of pure white statuary marble, with shafts of Lisbon red marble dividing the front and sides into panels. The reredos is perpendicular Gothic in keeping with the style of the church and is constructed of Caen stone. Frederick Clark Withers, architect.
